The brown tailed moth is an insect pest that has worked havoc to vegetation in the limited areas in which it has appeared and gives promise of being a national horticultural curse unless the most stringent measures are taken to keep it in check. Once it appears in a locality it strips orchard, shade and forest trees of every vestige of foliage. To handle the problem as it should be met not only should most stringent laws be passed, but there should be the fullest co-operation possible between federal and state authorities.

In sections where heavy windstorms are likely to occur at harvest time a timber belt on the windward side of the orchard often saves heavy loss from windfalls as the fruit approaches maturity. Where the orchard has not been favorably located with reference to such timber protection a shelter belt can be grown in a few years. Quick growing varieties such as the cottonwood and box elder will answer the purpose nicely, while the Scotch or white pine may be set outside the deciduous varieties to give effective protection near the ground. In the writer's own orchard such windbreak has meant a saving of hundreds of dollars almost every year as a result of the protection afforded.

WILL SURPASS ALL RECORDS

Well Known Fruit Grower Declares that this Year's Apple Yield in Adams County will Surpass Bumper Crop of 1907.

"Adams County's apple crop this year will exceed the bumper crop of 1907 when all former records were broken." This statement was made to a representative of The Times by one of the best known fruit growers in the county. The gentleman continued,

"The conditions which Dr. Surface, of the State Department, says are existing in Pennsylvania are not found in Adams county to any extent. Never before has there been such careful work done to get rid of orchard pests. As an indication of this I have only to tell you that one house in this county dealing in spraying material has sold ten times as much for Summer spraying as two years ago. The Summer spraying is for the codling moth. The crusade against San Jose Scale has been waged by fruit growers in this county for some years but never before was there such an active fight against the dangerous codling moth.

"Some fruit growers say that their apples are lying on the ground. That is only in cases where careful, intelligent spraying was not done. Look at the orchards belonging to the various members of the Fruit Growers' Association of Adams County and you will find few apples lying on the ground. In our orchards not one bushel could be found.

"It is true that the wet weather at the time the apple trees were in blossom damaged the crop somewhat and that the apples were not set on some limbs as well as could be desired, but the loss in this way is more than made up by the fact that thousands of trees planted within the past ten years will bear their first crop this year.

"Large numbers of orchards may be found in the county which will yield their owners handsome returns this year. Notable examples are the orchards of William E. Bream, of near Biglerville, and that of John Shull at Florr's Church. Both these men had big crops two years ago but this year they will get much larger yields. It will be a big year for Adams County's apple growers."

GREAT IMPROVEMENT

The vault in the office of Register and Recorder Appler presents a greatly improved appearance due to the re-binding of a large number of the books, including will books, deed books and others. For many years the local attorneys have complained of the condition in which the old books were to be found and as a result the County Commissioners and Mr. Appler decided that the books be rebound. This was well done by Herman Mertz and the change is a most welcome one to those whose duties cause them to refer to the contents of the vault.

SOUTH MOUNTAIN HAS BIG FIRE

Much Timberland Burned over in Monday Night Fire. Damage will not be Great Owing to Land Having Suffered before.

A fierce forest fire broke out Monday evening on South Mountain in the vicinity of Pine Grove Furnace. Dense clouds of smoke rolled up over the mountain and residents of the upper end of the county could see and smell it very plainly.

The origin of the fire is unknown but as the same territory was burned over once before this year the damage will not be very great. Everything is parched and dry and it is an easy matter to start the forest fires. Monday night's fire spread rapidly over a large territory of mountain land and a big force of men was at once out to fight the flames.

They worked until late into the night coping successfully with the fire though it progressed stubbornly for some hours. The men were especially anxious to prevent its eating its way on to fresh timberland which had not been touched by the former fires and in this they were successful.

Several other minor fires have occurred during the past week on the mountain but the damage is said to have been light compared with the big fires of last year.

BLEACHED FLOUR.

Secretary James Wilson has won out in a contention which he had with the millers of the country about bleached flour, it being his view that subjecting flour to the bleaching process was a violation of the pure food laws. This question takes its origin from the increased production of durum or macaroni wheat, which, owing to an excess above demands for export purposes, the millers have been bleaching and mixing with other flour. Flour from durum wheat contains a large per cent of gluten, is quite yellow in color, and it is because of the desire of the millers, who pay less for the wheat, to sell it under another name that the trouble has arisen. Secretary Wilson holds that this flour should sell under its own colors and sell for just what it is.

An instance has lately been cited in which an insane patient in a western hospital was cured by caring for the hospital poultry flock. He was not so deranged but that he was able to look after them, and in some way the interest he took in his charges and the diverting of his attention from his own condition had the desired curative effect.

In fighting pocket gophers, as in coping with many another rodent, insect or weed pest, the best results can only be obtained when there is co-operative effort among the neighbors of the infested locality. It is a discouraging proposition, this trying to clean up a fellow's place of gophers or other noxious things, when the man across the fence doesn't manifest a like interest in doing the same good work on his own place.

FREE For "Summer Complaint"

The common ailment of these hot days is "Summer Complaint," or diarrhea. It is very annoying and weakens and upsets the stomach. The cause of the trouble usually lies in food and water, which in the summer time are often laden with germs, but with many it is due to eating too much fruit or to eating over-ripe fruit. Whatever the cause it is not good to take a straining remedy that binds up the bowels and stops the flow too suddenly, but take a reliable, natural laxative like DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPIN.

Its antiseptic properties remove the germs which have been causing the irritation. Children like it especially because of its gentle action and pleasant taste. Salts and purgative waters, tablets or pills, act so violently as to weaken you still more, and do but temporary good. DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPIN is the best remedy you can obtain for constipation, indigestion, summer complaint or summer colic, biliousness, sick headache, etc. All druggists sell it and it costs only 50 cents or $1.00 a large bottle. It is for all members of the family and should be your household remedy for these purposes.

SUTTON LETTERS READ IN COURT

Mother of Lieutenant Wrote

SHOT TO HIDE CRIME

Says Son Came to Her After Death and Told Her He Was Beaten to Death and Shot By Adams—Describes His Wounds, and Says Dead Son Begged Her to Live and Clear
His Name.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 10.—The reading of the record of last Saturday, when the board of inquiry investigating the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, U. S. M. C., on the government reservation here about two years ago, conducted the proceedings of that day in secret, and the cross-examination of Mrs. Sutton, the mother of the dead officer, occupied practically all of the meeting of the board. No sooner had Mrs. Sutton taken the stand to testify than Major Leonard, judge advocate, demanded that the letters of Mrs. Sutton, read at the closed session on last Saturday, be read in public, along with the record of the whole meeting.

The letters were four in number, and they were written to H. M. Swartz, a clerk in the marine corps paymasters' office in Washington, D. C., by Mrs. Sutton. The first asked Swartz if she could write with confidence as to his sympathy.

Called Son's Chums Wild Beasts
A second letter to Mr. Swartz gave a version of what occurred on the night of Lieutenant Sutton's death, and also detailed wounds which Mrs. Sutton wrote had been inflicted upon her son. She referred frequently to those who were with Lieutenant Sutton at the time he was shot as "wild beasts."

In this letter the name of Miss Mary E. Stewart, of Pittsburg, was mentioned. Mrs. Sutton asked Swartz to find out from Osterman and the others who were in the automobile with Sutton on the fatal night what had actually happened preceding the shooting.

In the third letter to Swartz, Mrs. Sutton says: "The love between 'Jimmie' and myself was the greatest that could exist between two persons. If 'Jimmie' met with an accident, I felt it a tonic. Well, the night those beasts were laying their plans for 'Jimmie' an awful fear came over me and my two daughters; we could not talk, and each kept away from the other for fear of betraying our feelings. The next day Mr. Sutton came in and asked if I could stand some awful news. He told me that 'Jimmie' was reported to have killed himself."

Shot to Hide Crime.
"Oh, God! Mr. Swartz," the writer exclaims, "if 'Jimmie' had not spoken to me I would have died. Then 'Jimmie' came up to me and said: 'Mother, dear, don't you believe it; I never killed myself. Adams killed me; they beat me to death and then Adams shot me to hide the crime. He told me how they laid a trap for him; how he walked into it; how Utley grabbed him to pull him out of the automobile; how they held him and Osterman beat him; about his forehead being broken, his teeth knocked out and the lump under his jaw, and how, when he was lying on the ground, someone kicked him in the side and smashed his watch. He begged me not to die, but to live and clear his name. Well, after three weeks, I proved some things he told me were true, and after repeatedly demanding the evidence after four months I got it, and within the last month I have proven everything he told me."

"Nothing could separate 'Jimmie' from me, not even death, and Adams, Utley, Potts and Osterman will never know a moment's rest on earth. Why should they?"

Mr. Birney, counsel for Lieutenant Adams, demanded to know upon what evidence Mrs. Sutton based the foregoing accusation. She replied that the testimony, to her mind, proved it, together with certain letters that she had in her possession.

The fourth letter was dated May 16. In it Mrs. Sutton told of having received a letter from young Owens, the chauffeur, and said that she would enclose a copy of that letter to Swartz.

Myers bolted when Gribbens began explaining his business, but the deputy caught him within the square and had read half the warrant when Myers grabbed the paper and tore it in two and again dashed away. Gribbens sprinted several hundred yards, then diving low, tackled Myers below the knees so hard that both fell with a thud, and while police kept back a crowd Gribbens calmly sat on the writhing man's stomach and read the remaining part of the warrant.

Determined to Go in It For the

Since making two trips in signal corps balloons last year young Roosevelt has determined to go in for the sport and may purchase a craft. At any rate he will apply for a pilot's license, to qualify for which requires ten trips in a balloon, one to be made alone and one at night. If he is successful he may participate in the national races to be held in the west this fall.

20 Years With Heart Trouble

"Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has cured me of heart disease of over 20 years' standing. I was so bad that I could not do my work, and could scarcely draw a full breath without fainting or smothering. The doctor told me he could do no more for me; then I commenced taking the Heart Remedy. I shall never forget that night. I slept better than I had before in months. I kept right on getting better, until I was perfectly well."
MRS. LAURA RUSSELL,
Logan, Iowa.

When the heart action is weak, it fails to pump the blood through the lungs with sufficient rapidity. Then the lungs do not absorb the proper amount of oxygen, although they may be taking in a normal amount of air. The result is shortness of breath, smothering spells, difficult breathing, oppressed feeling in chest. Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy strengthens the heart nerves and muscles, and in this way increases the circulation.

Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS

Gettysburg People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress. The secretions are dark, contain a sediment.

Passages are frequent, scanty, painful. Backache is constant day and night. Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent. The weakened kidneys need quick help. Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and urinary disorders.

Gettysburg evidence proves this statement.

Mrs. Sarah Hamilton, 60 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I endured much misery from disordered kidneys for a long time and was unable to find anything that would give me relief. I was very nervous, suffered from headaches and at times had sharp, shooting pains throughout my body. The passages of the kidney secretions were also very irregular. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at the People's drug store and used them. I improved from the first and am today in better health than before in years. I give Doan's Kidney Pills my heartiest endorsement."

GIRL MURDERED IN CEMETERY

Attacked When She Went to Decorate Graves.

BODY FOUND CRUELY BURIED

Was Covered With Bruises, Scratches and Blood—Girl Fought Hard For Honor and Life — Broken Spade Gives Clue to Murderer.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 10. — That Anna Schumacher, the seventeen-year-old girl, whose body was found crudely buried in Holy Sepulchre cemetery, was choked and beaten to death after being criminally assaulted, is the conclusion based on the autopsy held by the coroner, but many of the circumstances of the crime, even to the exact place where it was committed, can still be only guessed. Although the authorities believe they have a clue to the murderer, namely a broken spade found near the scene of the deed, who is guilty of the crime is a matter of the vaguest speculation.

The strange actions of a man discovered at the scene of the murder by an employe of the cemetery directed suspicion toward him and for a time gave promise that an arrest would be made, but the man made his escape and it is not known who he was.

A description of the man was given to the police and a search is being made for him.

Body Covered With Bruises.

The autopsy emphasized the brutality of the crime. The body was in a pitiable condition—the head, face, chest, arms and hands were covered with bruises and scratches; the bone that supports the tongue, the hyoid, was fractured, when the assailant choked his victim; the body was covered with blood, and the hair was full of dirt and leaves, indicating that the body was dragged some distance, probably by the feet. Part of the clothing had been removed. It would seem that the girl, who was of vigorous physique, made a desperate struggle to save her honor and her life.

The young woman left her home on Saturday morning to place flowers in the family cemetery, which is that of the Catholic church, and when she did not return at night her family became greatly alarmed. A search was instituted, which was kept up until the finding of her body by two officers.

The spot where the body was found was well chosen for concealment. It is back of an old ice house in the cemetery property and is surrounded by wild undergrowth and trees.

act it is unlawful to sell or to store any liquids containing more than one-half of 1 per cent alcohol. Locker clubs are illegal, and the possession of a United States internal revenue license shall be considered prima facie evidence of guilt.

The Fuller bill and the Ballard bill are still pending in the house. They are more radical than the Carmichael bill, and are designed to aid in the enforcement of the latter. Both will be passed.

MAN AND WIFE FIGHT DUEL IN PARLOR

Woman Killed and Husband Shot Twice.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—After locking their two children in a bedroom and fastening all the doors of their flat, Antonio Spizzirri and his wife, Anna, went into the darkened parlor and tried to kill each other. The woman was shot twice and stabbed twice with a stiletto, and died before the police arrived. The husband was shot twice also and he may die. A revolver and a knife were found near the sofa on which the woman lay dead, and another revolver was found beside the husband's body. The disordered room indicated a terrible struggle.

Spizzirri turned on his side as the police, called by neighbors, broke into the room with a sledgehammer, and tore a letter which was on the floor by his side into bits before the police could stop him. This letter, when translated from the Italian, may solve the mystery. It is thought that Spizzirri was jealous of his wife.

NAVAL HERO'S HEIRS SUE

Descendants of John Paul Jones Seek to Recover Land.

Marietta, O., Aug. 10.—Litigation has been started here by an heir of John Paul Jones, the famous American naval hero, for about 1,000,000 acres of land near this city. Mrs. Combaull, of Paris, France, an heir of Admiral Jones, asserts that she had a deed of trust for the land, given her by other heirs of the naval officer, and Attorney A. Dewey Follett started proceedings to gain possession of the property.

The records of this county show that Admiral Jones once owned the land in question, and there seems to be nothing to indicate that it does not now belong to his heirs.

HEAT CAUSED GREAT SUFFERING

Mercury Close to 100 Degrees in Eastern Pennsylvania.

SIX DEATHS IN PHILADELPHIA

Even in the Mountains the Temperature Has Been Extremely High. Forest Fires Raging Above Williamsport—Schuylkill Lower Than at Any Time in Its History.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—The mercury in the official thermometer reached 98 degrees here Monday, while many instruments on the streets showed a temperature above the 100 mark. Six deaths were reported as due to the excessive heat. Among them was William Fullerton, aged sixty years, a well known contractor and builder, who was overcome by the heat in his private office and died while being removed to a hospital.

Throughout the state the suffering from the extreme heat and the lack of rain has been great. Even in the mountainous districts the temperature has been extremely high. In Altoona the thermometer registered 92, while the city of Johnstown sweltered under a temperature of 94. Scranton was somewhat cooler, a slight rainfall bringing relief. Harrisburg reports the hottest day of the summer, the temperature reaching 96. In Allentown there was a drop in the temperature of a few degrees from the high figures of Sunday, but owing to the increased humidity very little relief was experienced. Lancaster sizzled under 96 degrees, while Pottsville reported one death and numerous prostrations, with the mercury close to 100.

Williamsport had a temperature of 90 degrees, and fierce forest fires are raging in the Black Forest district of Lycoming county. Fires are also raging in the vicinity of Eagles Mere and Lake Mohawk.

The deficiency in rainfall since Aug. 1 already amounts to almost two inches, and the Schuylkill river is now lower than any time in its history.

Stricken in Harvest Field.

Pittsburg, Aug. 10.—The heat wave that is holding suffering humanity in its grasp in western Pennsylvania was responsible for one death, while several other persons are in a serious condition from being prostrated by the hot rays of the sun.

James McNary was stricken while harvesting in a field near his home at Washington, Pa., and died within a few minutes. J. K. Houston, a veteran of the Civil War, is unconscious and little hope is entertained of his recovery. He was prostrated while attending the funeral of a comrade at Beaver Falls, Pa. In this city several persons were overcome, but it is expected that all will recover.

Several reports from towns in this part of the state tell of deaths from heart trouble, which was supposed to have been superinduced by the heat.

93 in New York.

New York, Aug. 10.—The thermometer of the local weather bureau registered 93 degrees Monday afternoon, the hottest day of the summer, and within three degrees of the hottest August day ever recorded here by the department. Hundreds of thousands sought Coney Island and the beaches for relief, but by an irony of nature it was 95 degrees at Coney Island when it was 93 in New York. Prostrations were continually being reported by the city hospitals, and five persons—four of them infants and one old man—died from the heat at the seashore.

DROWNED IN WHIRLPOOL

Three Young Men Perish Bathing in Patuxent River Off Duke's Wharf.

Baltimore, Aug. 10.—While bathing in the Patuxent river, off Duke's wharf, three young men were suddenly drawn under in a whirlpool and drowned. All were Baltimoreans. They were Frank R. Schultze, George H. Combs and Dr. Howard Eastman. Schultze, who was an expert swimmer, perished in an attempt to save the other two.

She Swallowed Paper Wads.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 10.—After Miss Grace Shaeffer, aged twenty, died in a Paris, Ill., hospital, the surgeons found that five feet of her intestines were clogged with paper wads. She was in the habit of swallowing. Her mother says the girl devoured a large quantity of newspaper wads daily, and had such a mania for it that the family tried to hide all paper from her.

Captive Swallow Turns White.

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 10.—George Parker discovered a white swallow in an unused oats box in his barn. Mr. Parker says the box had not been opened in two years. He thinks the bird had subsisted on the oats in the box, and that the confinement turned its feathers white.

The Weather.

Forecast for this section: Partly cloudy and somewhat lower temperature today; tomorrow fair light to moderate northwest winds.

To do this with joy we want to be as well dressed as possible—and to tell you how this can be done, and yet leave a goodly sum from your appropriation for the vacation, is the purpose of this Ad.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by People's Drug Store.

Recent visitors at the home of W. B. McNair on route 3, were Miss Helen McNair and Miss Maude McNair, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Peters and granddaughter, of Fairfield.

A. S. Mills, of route 13, has recovered sufficiently from his driving accident to be able to get around with the aid of crutches.

Route 4 boasts of more camps than any other route in the county.

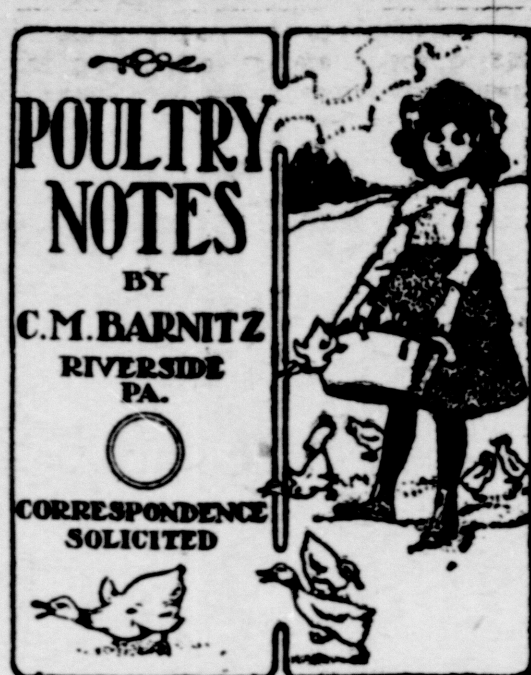

Arthur M. Lightner, of route 12, has a cow that gave birth to twin calves on Sunday. One of Mr. Lightner's fine mares is seriously ill.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Staub, of route 9, a daughter.

A resident of Reading, Pa., departing from the usual practice of having his apiary in his back yard or orchard, has fitted up his garret for this purpose and there has some forty hives. The bees have access to the room through holes bored just beneath the window sills. They seem contented in their old quarters and store their sweets there just as generously as out among the grass and flowers, some colonies producing as much as 300 pounds during a season.

Instances of death from descending into wells long unused are of too frequent occurrence. In such instances death is due to the presence in the well of carbon dioxide, which, being heavy, settles to the bottom and in which it is impossible for a human being to breathe. It is always well before going into such a well to lower a lantern by means of a rope. If it continues to burn at the bottom it means that the life giving oxygen is there and that it is safe to descend. If the light goes out the presence of carbon dioxide is shown, and this means that death lurks at the bottom.

Ties which are being scattered along most railways for repair work are black as your hat, showing evidence of treatment with creosote, one of the most effective wood preservatives known. Years ago the abundance and cheapness of ties were such that the question was one of minor consideration, but today even poor ties cost sixty cents apiece. It is estimated that the creosote bath costs from thirty to fifty cents per tie and increases its life three or four times. During 1908, 56,000,000 gallons of creosote were used in preserving timber, as well as 19,000,000 pounds of zinc chloride.

FLAPJACKS FOR MINE.

I never heard them singin' worlds What poets rave about; I ain't much on these classic tunes What fellers beller out.

But, golly, when that chunk o' fat Goes sizzlin' on the griddle flat I'd rather hear the sound o' that Than all this tootin' in B flat.

Then when the batter from the pot Drops hassin' on that griddle hot An' them big flapjacks go kerflop That's music, now, I tell yer what!

An' when Marlar calls: "Come, Bill! Come while they're hot an' eat 'yer fill!" Oh, my, her voice gives me a thrill That beats a prima donna's trill!

Let poets soar to worlds so fair An' git chuck full o' desert air. Let them float far on raptur's wings An' look down on these grosser things.

I'll stay below an' watch Marlar A-turnin' flapjacks on the fire. Then I'll pour on the chicken jooce, An' fur them flapjacks I'll cut jooce.

BE A SPECIALIST.

This is an age when men center thought and concentrate energy on one thing—a specialty. The butcher-baker-candlestick maker man is out of date. Life is too short for tinkering. The universe is not ours to monkey with. You have a few shots at the bullseye, then to adjourn sine die.

You must learn all you can about everything worth knowing, but know one thing best and do that well. This applies to poultry culture and everything else. Rooster menageries are out of date. The successful fancier does not run a zoo. The most successful poultryman in the world clears $35,000 a year on one breed to which he has devoted his sole attention for twenty years.

Is there money in chickens? Yes, for the scientific, practical, pushing specialist.

THE CHICKEN DOCTOR SAYS—

When chickens drop green, slimy stuff around and linger awhile and die don't bother cholera and yell for the horse liniment.

Cholera comes seldom, sweeps like a fire; none linger and few survive. Don't feed heavy in the heat. Keep the henhouse cool and sweet and color that pure cold water with rennetian red.

When young green ducks get red sores on their heads and their eyes are surrounded by scabs it's time for some fellow "to git licked" for not having the water vessels deep enough that they might dip in over their eyes for cleansing. Sour bran will grow a red spot even on an irreproachable church deacon's nose.

When your chickens come off the roosts late and loaf around languid like and don't care whether breakfast keeps or not you fed them too much the night before or your roosting place is alive with mites. As a remedy for the first, exercise your judgment. As a remedy for the second, exercise your lazy bones to swing a whitewash brush.

When your cock bird's comb turns purple and varies from red to purple and black and he gets black or purple in face and wattles after a run or when caught he has a weak heart. If he does not expire suddenly he will end up with cardiac asthma and purging. The bird is an N. G. breeder, and this incurable disease is often caused by strain from panting in an overheated incubator.

When your fowls in summer, while surrounded by healthful conditions, show white spots in mouth and throat they are chronic canker victims and should be killed. Canker is a winter disease, and the trouble may be remedied, if it has not gone too far, by placing the bird in sanitary environment, removing cheesy matter gently and applying hydrogen peroxide.

When your chicks took the usual trip to chicken heaven by the gape-worm route it just shows that you kept them on the same old tainted ground again and let them run in the wet.

Better plow up that ground and raise potatoes next season rather than dig chick graves and have more sins to answer for, and, besides, remember every dead chick makes your wad less thick.

DON'TS.

Don't expect poultry to pan out a lot of dust if you loaf around and let things rust.

Don't be surly, nor think your bosom is a repository of all the secrets necessary to the welfare of the race. Just remember, conceit hung Haaman.

Don't plug up a leaking incubator lamp with pie dough. Take some "dough" and buy a new lamp.

Don't pretend to be an expert when your wife furnishes the brains. Such a noodle can't hold the reins.

Don't fail to advertise surplus breeders early and make room and clean house for the youngsters. Nice, bright quarters help to make the dollars.

A MATTER OF CONSCIENCE.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Deacon Uriah Hart of the village of Poolsville was an ex-deacon, as a matter of fact, but the title still clung to him. It was the same with Deacon Abraham Noble. For ten years there was a neighborly and a brotherly feeling between these two men. Then came a rupture. They traded horses, and each felt that the other had taken advantage of him. There was no scandal over it, but the two men were cool to each other and had nothing to explain, even to their wives. The minister of their church sought to smooth over matters, but found them noncommittal.

At the end of the year Deacon Hart rose up in prayer meeting one night and said that, while he had tried his best to be a good man, he had made a slip or two in his life. One of those slips rested hard on his conscience and he would ask forgiveness. He was about to make a statement when a big piece of plaster fell from the ceiling and struck him on the head, and his injuries were such that he was in bed for a fortnight.

He had been out of bed and walking around for a month when he and Deacon Noble met on the bridge. They were about to pass with a nod when the latter deacon stopped and said:

"Uriah, I don't feel right in my mind. It isn't about that horse trade, but something else. I think of it and can't sleep nights. I'm going to own up and ask ye!"

But he didn't own up. Just then a farmer's runaway team came along, and they had to jump into the creek to get out of the way. They both crawled out sopping wet and went home, and after they had got dried out conscience didn't seem to prick quite so hard. Then Deacon Hart wounded himself in the leg with a pitchfork, and after a day or two symptoms of blood poisoning set in. He feared that his days were numbered, and he sent for Deacon Noble and said:

"Abraham, I may die of this, and I want to leave my house in order. My conscience is pricking me about a certain thing in connection with you, and I want to get it off my mind."

"That's right, Uriah," urged the other. "No one ought to go to the grave with anything on his mind. I'm ready to hear your confession."

But no confession was made. The doctor came in just then to examine and dress the wound, and he said he was glad to inform Deacon Hope that the bad symptoms had disappeared and that the leg would now do nicely. These words had a wonderful effect on conscience, and the deacon shut his lips and waited for some other time. That time didn't come for a year or more. Then Deacon Noble's wife was taken ill with typhoid fever. When the crisis approached and the doctor said the chances were all against her the husband broke down. He was out under an apple tree, and when Deacon Hart came along and began to express his sympathy Deacon Noble decided to relieve his conscience.

But he didn't relieve it. The doctor came to the door and beckoned to him and whispered that he believed the crisis was passed. It was such good news that Deacon Noble wouldn't have confessed anything for a hundred dollars. His wife convalesced, and time ran along until the biannual camp meeting opened. Both deacons were particularly strong on camp meetings. They were there and enthusiastic. On the third day of the camping the spirits of all were aroused by the words of a visiting minister, and at length Deacon Hart got up and said that he could stand it no longer. He was admonished to make a full confession, but before he could start out Deacon Noble, who was laboring under nervous excitement, arose and said that he had a burden on his conscience that he was determined to get rid of.

Something might have come of the two confessions then and there but for some loafers who had planned to break up the meeting. They let a lot of bees loose on the people and created a diversion lasting an hour, and when it was over it was found that both deacons had been stung so many times that any matters of conscience had been adjourned to a more propitious occasion. That occasion came just a year later. There was a flood in the river, and both deacons turned out to help the sawmill man save his property. They were engaged in this neighborly task when both found themselves seated on the same log and being whirled downstream. It was then that Deacon Hart said:

"Abraham, we are in danger."

"We are, Uriah."

"We may never see home again."

"I'm afraid we won't."

"Then I'll make that confession to you, and you make yours to me."

"Yes; the time has surely come."

"Abraham we traded horses. I thought you cheated me."

"Just what I thought of you, Uriah."

"I didn't say anything about it, but to get even with you I sneaked into your barn one night and cut off your cow's tail. Can you, will you, forgive a repentant man?"

"With all my heart, Uriah. I thought you had beat me in that horse trade, and one night I sneaked over into your pasture and knocked the horns off your bull. Shake! Neither one of us has a damned thing on his conscience, and this saw log is driving right ashore, and we shall be saved as sure as shooting!"
